ORNAMENTS DON'T JUST GROW ON TREES . . . THEY'RE PLACED THERE!

For Magic Kingdom cast members, it seemed like an overnight transformation last week, as Main Street put on its holiday coat of decorations.

We visited with Hank Dains of the Decorating Department to find out if ornaments really grow on trees (and lamp posts and building fronts) . . . or if they're placed there. Hank confirmed the latter.

"The Decorating Department actually begins planning for Christmas in the early Fall," Hank explained from Decorating's office beneath Tomorrowland in the tunnels. "We work so far in advance, that the holidays are almost anticlimactic."

"The tree we are using this year in Town Square comes from the High Sierra Mountains, near Lake Tahoe in California. In early August, we are assisted by the Forestry Department in selecting the perfect tree for use at Walt Disney World. It is then cut and shipped the first week of October." Hank went on to point out that this year's Christmas Tree stands 61 feet above Main Street. In the forest, it stood near 85 feet tall, but was shortened some 24 feet for shipping across the country. It arrived at Walt Disney World in early November, and was erected behind Main Street in the MO-7 parking lot.

As the holidays approach, most of us set aside one long afternoon or evening to decorate our Christmas trees and living rooms. But not so here, Decorating set aside nearly one entire month to prepare the 61 foot tree!

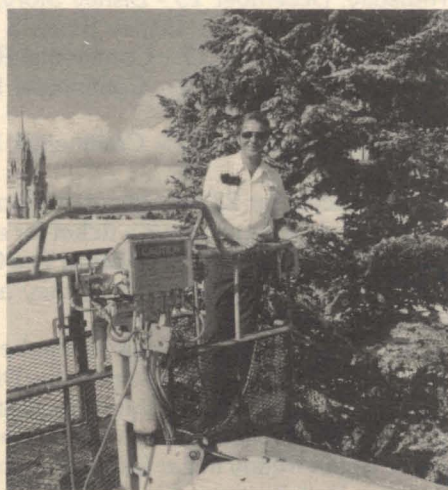

Vince Boylan

Pete Teague, Supervisor of Decorating, explained that two men working out of fully-extended "cherry pickers" spent the month of November swaying above the Magic Kingdom preparing the tree for its holiday debut. First up was to thin out the limbs, drill new holes throughout the tree trunk, and plug 'em right back in! Three-hundred additional limbs taken from the 24 foot section cut-off in the forest were also shipped with the tree, and were plugged in to fully fill out the sides.

Once plugged, it was time for its first coat of paint. Over 65 gallons of flame retardant green paint were sprayed on, serving the dual purpose of keeping the tree "fresh" looking and flame resistant. Then it is "flocked" with approximately 75 pounds of styrofoam snow to bring a touch of winter to Central Florida.

Don Hazen

Four-thousand feet of electric wire bearing over 4,000 colored light bulbs were strung around and around the branches, spiralling clear to the top-most limbs, where a 3-foot star caps it off! Then its time for the ornaments. Over 2,500 gingerbread men, sparkling bulbs and the like are attached by hand to the branches. Most of these were designed by the Decorating Department and manufactured in our Facilities Shops, since turn-of-the-century ornaments for a 61 foot tree are not readily available at the local department store.

OVERNIGHT MAGIC RESULT OF PLANNING

It isn't just a wave of Tinkerbell's wand that turns the Magic Kingdom into a Christmas paradise overnight, but careful planning layed out months in advance. Pete Teague continues . . . "We know the date, this year it was the night of December 2nd, so we back-off a schedule to make sure everything is ordered and ready to go up." Everything is stockpiled and a crew of 20 Decorating personnel get set.

As soon as the last guest cleared the gate that evening last week, off they went like a cannon . . . as ladders went up on building fronts and street lamps, others dropped down from roof tops loaded with garlands and electrical wiring. A giant 25-ton crane moved up to the towering 61 foot Christmas tree, lifted it straight up, and slowly moved towards Town Square. Hours later, the tree was

"PETE'S DRAGON" PREMIERES THIS SUNDAY

Pete's Dragon is the story of a nine-year-old orphan whose occasional visible friend, Elliott the dragon, wreaks havoc on a New England town just after the turn of the century.

A LITTLE NEW ENGLAND IN CALIFORNIA

The story takes place in Maine just after the turn of the century, in the town of Passamaquoddy, a seaside hamlet where fishing and having a good time at the local tavern are the principle occupations.

Art Director Jack Martin Smith researched Maine of the period and set to work changing the backlot at the Studio from a western street into the Passamaquoddy town square and warf area. He spent $250,000 face-lifting 30 existing buildings and constructing eight more, all in the mode of the time. The interiors were then created inside the giant sound stages there.

But the film's coup was a 52-foot lighthouse built on a promontory south of Morrow Bay, California, and a duplicate constructed in sections inside a Studio sound stage. The full lighthouse is 18 feet in diameter at the base.

Ornaments Don't Just Grow On Trees

lowered into a mooring hole in the ground. The electric lights were connected, large colorful packages were placed beneath it, and the Landscaping Department finished the picture with poinsettias in full bloom surrounding the base!

After a 14-hour burst of decorating, the Magic Kingdom became a Christmas fantasyland, ready to greet our guests Saturday morning. Pete added that the holidays came early to Lake Buena Vista, as the Decorating crew erected their 45 foot tree in the Village Thanksgiving Eve.

Both Hank and Pete added that credit for the holiday look across our property belongs to many more than just Decorating. Many other departments were involved in our overnight magic, as Walt Disney World dressed up for the season.

It took $115,000 and 50 men over three-weeks to build it overlooking the Pacific Ocean where the wind blows briskly and the view is similar to that of the eastern coastline. The lighthouse is octagonally shaped and covered with shingles to convey the naivete of the story.

The lighthouse lens is of the Fresnell type, named for the French physicist who designed it in the early 1850s. It cost an additional $6,000 and is 4 and-a-half feet in diameter and eight feet tall. Curved bevels emanate from a central circle of glass, so maximum refraction occurs at every spot. Disney crews made the lenses and designed them to rotate on a grandfather clock weight system.

Inside the lens, an authentically duplicated three-sleeve wick which is six inches in diameter sits on a period wickstand and casts a beacon of light for ships to see from 18 to 24 miles! Location manager Dutch Horton had to get special permission from the Coast Guard in case the giant lamp had to be lit during filming, because it worked well enough to confuse passing ships.

The lighthouse sets were carefully dismantled when filming was completed, and plans have been discussed to transport them to Disneyland and Walt Disney World as future attractions.

If you are, then check this out . . . all Disney cast members may purchase a Christmas tree at $1 off the marked price when they see Paul Chapman at his tree lot, located at the Fort Gatlin Shopping Center, intersection of Holden Avenue and South Orange Avenue in Orlando.

Paul tells us that all of his trees are top quality Scotch Pines and Douglas Firs, ranging from six to eight feet tall, with some slightly smaller.

To take advantage of this discount, simply bring your Disney ID with you to Paul's tree lot, between 10 am and 10 pm.

The cost is $98 per person; which includes round-trip transportation, hotel accommodations based on double occupancy, two days' use of rental ski equipment, and two lift passes . . . everything you'll need for a fabulous Ski Weekend!

HAVE YOU MOVED LATELY?

If you have moved or changed your mailing address lately, then you need to change it in the company records also. If the address currently printed on your paycheck is incorrect, then all you need do is get a "Change of Address" form from your supervisor, fill it out, and turn it back into your supervisor. He or she will forward it to the Personnel Services Department.

Walt Disney World periodically mails publications and official documents to your home. These include W2 forms for your personal income tax purposes, EYES & EARS Family Editions, tickets, and many others. Your assistance in updating your records will be appreciated.

PENSION NOTICE

During the past few weeks, the Pension Office has been mailing application forms to all cast members who are eligible, but never completed the form before. Should you receive one, it is extremely important that you complete the application and return it to the Personnel Services Office (1st floor of The Center) as soon as possible.

If you want to participate in the Plan, then sign your name and return. If you do not wish to participate, then sign and date the refusal segment and return.

Our two Disney Ambassadors spent last week at Walt Disney World on one leg of an intensive training program, designed to prepare them for representing the many sides of our company. Walt Disney World's Vicky Jaramillo (l) and Disneyland's Raellen Lescault (r) take a break from touring the Magic Kingdom here. Raellen returned to California Wednesday for the holidays as both prepare to assume their new role the first of the new year.

WHEN'S THE BEST TIME TO VISIT THE PARK?

We know that many of you have been getting questions from your family and neighbors on when is the best time to visit the Magic Kingdom these Christmas holidays, December 17 through 31.

We checked with Marketing Division and they explained that most of the Northern tourists will not be arriving in Florida until after Christmas Day this year, so the very best (and least crowded) time of the year for our Central Florida residents to visit Walt Disney World will be the week before Christmas . . . December 19 through 23.

In addition to the Magic Kingdom and our regular entertainment, guests will be able to view our new Very Merry Christmas Parade and the popular rock group Starbuck. The Magic Kingdom will be open daily from 9 am to midnight . . . with plenty of fun and excitement for all!

MECO'S "STAR WARS" HIGHLIGHTS SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE WORLD

Popular disco group Meco highlights the December 10th Saturday Night at the World in the Magic Kingdom.

Meco's "Star Wars Theme/Cantina Band" single from the "Star Wars and Other Galactic Funk" album has been one of 1977's biggest hits, enjoying a nine-week stay in Record World's top ten. Both the single and the album are extremely close to being certified platinum.

On December 10, the Magic Kingdom operating hours will be extended until midnight with regular admission prices in effect.

Other special Saturday Night at the World features include Fantasy in the Sky Fireworks at 10 pm, the Cavalcade of Characters Parade at 9 pm, and performances throughout the Magic Kingdom by resident entertainers like Gabriel's Brass, Michael Iseberg and the Mardi Gras Sound Company.

Meco will perform three shows on the Cinderella Castle Forecourt stage at 8 pm, 10:05 pm and 11:15 pm. Included in their performances will be their new album, "Encounters of Every Kind," slated for release this month.
